Newsletter of June-August 2018

The last quarter for Batch 11 Professional Program students of Campuhan College was filled with the internship activities. All of the students have an internship in one of the places of interest around Ubud area for about two months before graduating. Some of them got their internship program in hotels, some in restaurants and also some in printing/design companies. Everyone is enjoying their internship time and the facilitators had good reviews about the students from the place they do their internship at. We have very positive responds about the students and some of them even now are working at the same place as their internship.

After completing their internship program they returned to the college. They continued their preparation for the upcoming Graduation Ceremony. In just less than a month, they had to prepare a spectacular performance to be performed during the event. They were given the freedom to choose on what kind of performance that they will perform. They chose the singing and dancing, theatrical way adapted from the movie “The Greatest Showman”. They came across some challenges during the rehearsal process but they were able to get through them and presented their very best as a group.

The event was a celebration full of happiness, love and care. The parents were overjoyed filled with pride and gratitude that their beloved son or daughter had finished their study in Campuhan College. Good wishes and prayers spread across everyone for the best in their future endeavors. With the theme of "The Greatest Journey" the students, donors, guests, staffs and all were celebrating for life.

That night began with the opening dance delivered by the young friends of Let's Talk with Campuhan College, a heartwarming speech from the director of Campuhan College and others, touching award ceremony, and ended with a spectacular performance from the students themselves. It was a memorable night that will be hard to erase from the memory of everyone attending the event. Feelings of gratitude, pride, joy and excitement filled the air.

New students during recruitment test

Almost at the same time with the graduation ceremony, the new students also went through the recruitment process. They went through the tests, interviews, and preliminary workshop of Leadership from Within. It was facilitated by Wayan Rustiasa and co-facilitated by all of the facilitators. Initiation is an important process at the beginning of the term because it is when the facilitators open opportunities for the students consciously change their paradigm from negative into positive. The process allows them realizing their values, that they already have within themselves all along. In terms of leadership involved, they can understand that it's solely their own responsibilities, not influenced by outside factors.

New students and facilitators are ready for Outbound activities

In the following week, there will be a workshop facilitated by the facilitators of Campuhan College Professional Program in our Open Heart space. The 24 students and all of the facilitators engaged in a series of activities from morning until late afternoon. This workshop is made to create an agreement of Collaborative Rules that they will use for the whole year ahead. The students will set their goals for a year, generally and specifically for every subject that they will undertake.

Living Values Education methods are being introduced as the foundation of their teaching learning activities for the next one year in Campuhan College. Each students will have to select their own values and live those values from now on. After understanding their five basic emotional needs which are loved, understood, valued, respect, and safe; the facilitators and students will decide the best practices for those needs. This will create a deeper understanding between the facilitators and the students,

Beside that, they will also be informed about the whole picture of what they will learn during their study, and a glimpse of what kind of job they will have in the future. Introduction to the college, exploring the environment, getting to know the staffs; also understanding their rights and obligations will be included in this introduction course. Hopefully they can implement what they get and enjoy their responsibilities in a value based atmosphere.

One of the students, Sky, stated that "the most memorable session was when I can recognize my five basic emotional needs, I can understand about my basic needs and surprised to know that people also have the same needs like I do." The same impression showed by Pipit, "In the five basic emotional needs session, I can find out what my basic needs are and what other people need, so that I can synchronize that needs evenly". Hopefully by understanding their needs, the students feel happier, and thankful. As the time goes by, their bond of togetherness is getting stronger.

Another great news this year - a new initiative from the alumnae of Campuhan College

The alumnae of Campuhan College created a program called "Adik Asuh" literally means Adopt Your Younger Sibling through this program, some alumnae who have already joined this program had managed to collect enough fund to sponsor one student this years to cover his tuition to study at Campuhan College. Yeni as one of the initiators of this program is so eager to invite more alumnae to participate in this program in the next coming years.
